

As yet another youngster dies at the hands of a sex-crazed pervert, we say:-

HANG CHILD MURDERERS!

IN WHAT IS ONLY THE LATEST in the epidemic of savage child killings plaguing Britain, innocent 14-year-old newsboy Stuart Gough was recently done to death by a sadistic sub-human close to the West Midlands village where he lived. Stuart had been so badly battered that, when his body was found following his disappearance on his paper round, he could only be identified by his fingerprints. Before being killed, he had been sexually assaulted.

His killer, who confessed to the murder in court, was homosexual Vic Miller. Miller's queer 'lover' Trevor Peacher, himself reported to have a record for sex-related offences, described how Miller's dark looks made him popular in homo clubs: Miller, he said, had difficulty in controlling his urges towards young boys, but, Peacher said, "I still love him."

The reaction from Stuart Gough's grief-stricken father was somewhat different. "I hope he rots in hell," he said. "He should get everything that's coming to him. I won't call him an animal because animals don't kill their own kind. He is a disease that should be got rid of." Even the Gough family's local vicar was moved to comment: "All my beliefs tell me I'm against hanging. But there are certain times when I feel there is a place for it. It is right and proper that there should be a debate."

But of course parliament has set its face against the rope. So, instead of getting his just deserts, Miller will now spend a number of years coddled and protected in a prison cell at huge expense to the taxpayer, with no guarantee that he will not be let loose again on the public at some time in the future.

CULT OF SOFTNESS

Public opinion polls have repeatedly shown that an overwhelming majority of the British people favours the return of hanging — especially for scum like Miller. In fact, it is a matter of elementary common sense, which should be obvious to any normal person, that such creatures as he should be wiped off the face of the earth without mercy.

But unfortunately it is no longer normal people who call the tune in modern Britain. A veritable cult of softness has been deliberately promoted by those in power for well over a generation now. Britain's ruling establishment, rotten with 'liberalism' as it is in the grip of a sickly 'compassion' towards everything debased, inferior and degenerate that whines for 'rights', ignores altogether the threat posed by these sub-humans and the public clamour that they be punished as befits their crimes.

Just look at how the green light was given to this flotsam of society way back in the 1960s by such people as the then Home Secretary Roy Jenkins, now a failed Social Democrat voted out of his constituency at the last election. It was Jenkins who proclaimed that the permissive society was a "civilised society." It was he and his ilk who wilfully and stubbornly ignored the voice of healthy popular instinct by almost simultaneously suspending the death penalty and legalising homosexuality — in both cases with the overwhelming support of parliament.

It was only the voices of the deviants, the perverts and their friends that Britain's ruling politicians ever wanted to listen to. And nothing whatever has changed right up to the present day.

PHONY TORY POSTURES

Of course, it suits the Tories to make tough-sounding statements on law and order and public decency at election time, when there are votes to be won. But once they are safely in office the Tories have quickly forgotten their tough words and have replaced them by actions every bit as weak as those of their opponents.

Indeed, in 1979 Mrs. Thatcher got herself made prime minister for the first time partly by exploiting, with a brazen cynicism, a public mood in favour of firmer law and order, including the return of the rope. She promised the electorate that there would be a free vote on hanging if she was returned to office. Of course she fully well knew at the time she made this promise that there would be a built-in majority in the House of Commons (including many Tories) against the return of capital punishment — still at that time 'suspended' rather than permanently abolished. When eventually it came to the vote, the result, predictably, was the final abolition of the death penalty. The Tories in fact achieved the very

Believe it or not, this is one of our democratically elected members of parliament

THE PICTURE HERE is of Mr. Paul Boateng, member of parliament for Brent South (and also ex-chairman of the Greater London Council's Police Committee). The picture perhaps indicates how Mr. Boateng intends to fulfil his role — to use his own words after being elected to the House of Commons last year — as a "Socialist tribune of all the people, black and white, in Brent."

Mr. Boateng chose to expose himself in this way at a recent Labour Party 'bash'. Apparently this was his way of 'sending up' the judiciary. Nowadays of course it is quite usual for Labour Party gatherings to feature all kinds of freaks and misfits, from CND peace creeps to lesbians and 'gay-libbers'.

Maybe Mr. Boateng's act was not so far removed from the average kind of behaviour to be found among such a gaggle of humanoid oddments — at least when they think they are in private!

We do not hazard a guess as to how Mr. Boateng's black constituents may regard the antics of their 'socialist tribune', but we feel that quite a few of the kind of white working-class voters who have traditionally supported Labour may start wondering exactly what it is that really goes on in the minds of those who claim to speak in their name.

Some of Mr. Boateng's left-wing colleagues present at the party in London's County Hall where this exhibition took place were said to have looked on in disapproval. This was perhaps because the slicker ones among them, such as the leftist friend of Sinn Fein, Mr. Ken Livingstone, think it inadvisable for the Labour Party to let too much hang out in public — just in case all sorts of embarrassing questions should start to get asked about the kinds of MPs likely to be returned to parliament by the people's votes.

Mr. Boateng has been allowed to gain a position of prominence and power in British public life. And he obviously thinks of himself as someone with the right to pontificate on matters affecting the future of the nation — a right to which, evidently, much of the mass media subscribes in view of the generous hearing given to his proclamations.

And just in case some people may think that the antics seen pictured here are confined to the loonies of the Labour Party, we

ANOTHER ZIONIST
RED HERRING

A GREAT artificial song and dance about so-called 'war crimes' — meaning exclusively acts carried out by, or under the rule of, Germans in World War II — is currently being contrived. One of the main sources of this agitation is the gangsterish and disreputable 'Simon Wiesenthal Centre', a California-based Zionist agency devoted to keeping alive as much senseless hatred against the Germans as possible, by endlessly plugging dubious claims about Nazi 'atrocities' against Jews.

The Wiesenthal Centre is heavily financed by Zionist bigwig Edgar Bronfman, a Canada-based booze king and multi-billionaire. The Bronfman family fortune is said to have been made partly from bootleg liquor smuggled into the United States during the prohibition era of the 1930s, where it was peddled illegally to the public by mobsters of the Al Capone variety.

One victim of this 'war crimes' nonsense is president Kurt Waldheim of Austria. The charge against Waldheim is that, as a very junior figure (a lieutenant) in the German Army during World War II, he may have had knowledge (nothing more!) of actions which are alleged (without much proof) to have been carried out by German forces in Yugoslavia, in the course of counter-insurgency operations, and which the international Zionist network is now trying to portray to the world as 'war crimes'.

More despicably still, the cowardly and vicious Wiesenthal crowd are trying to stitch up elderly Eastern Europeans who took refuge in Britain and other western countries after the war. These men joined the German war effort against Communist Russia, more than 45 years ago, in what they saw at the time as the best chance of freeing their homelands from the Soviet tyranny that held sway over them. Ever since then, the Soviets have sought revenge against them.

Now, incredibly, the leaders of Zionist Jewry are demanding that our own government prosecute these refugees on the basis of their having allegedly carried out 'atrocities' — for which the only 'evidence' consists of Soviet documents. These documents were probably cooked up by the well-skilled forgers of the Soviet secret police — itself the most sadistic and murderous organisation of its kind in history! It might also be observed that our own government is being called on to do the dirty work of the Soviet regime against its enemies at a period when that very same regime is supposed to be our number-one world enemy!

The Zionists, the fanatical faction within World Jewry behind the establishment of the state of Israel, are forever pointing to the alleged — but never proven — 'genocide' against Jews in World War II as the be-all and end-all of human suffering, which is never to be forgiven or forgotten.

But if there is any group of people in the world who thoroughly deserve to be branded 'war criminals' it is the current leaders (and past leaders) of Israel. In the name of Zionism, these people drove the Palestinians from their land, committing the most unspeakable atrocities in the process — atrocities such as the massacre of the village of Deir Yassin.

THE STORY OF BRITAIN in modern times has been a story of growing moral sickness and corruption. The pervert and deviant elements have exploited the 'tolerance' which they have extorted from society to gain a position of quite frightening influence and power for themselves and their kind.

When the Lord Chancellor Lord Mackay accepted Bowley's resignation, a whole 'gay rights' mafia within the legal profession revealed itself, leaping immediately to Bowley's defence. According to these spokesmen, the Lord Chancellor should not only have stood by Bowley high places, it is not surprising that queers and other pervers of all kinds now feel that they have the green light. Detective Superintendent John Lewis of Scotland Yard, who is now heading an investigation into child sex rings, recently commented: "The problem is much bigger than we first thought. It has become clear that there are scores

When this was drawn to the attention of the church and the school, their lack of response, in the words of the girl's father, "defied description." According to a Daily Mail report: "The Bishop of Croydon, Britain's only black bishop and a friend of Tudor's family, was alerted to the problem several months before police began enquiries. But according to one detective the church "did not seem to regard it as a sexual matter."

It was five years before Tudor was so much as suspended from the ministry, and he was then virtually promoted, being given an important post working for the Archbishop of Canterbury!

When he was finally brought to trial, Tudor was found guilty of an atrocious list of offences, including the seduction of a 13-year-old girl, with whom he subsequently had sex over 100 times; corrupting a 15-year-old; and indecently assaulting a young guide at his parsonage.

SLAP ON THE WRIST

But all that Judge Kenneth Rubin was prepared to give him was what amounted to little more than a slap on the wrist. Passing sentence, Rubin incredibly and outrageously described the whole appalling affair as a 'tragedy' — for Tudor! He then imposed what he said was the minimum possible sentence of six months imprisonment on this disgusting child molester.

Full of cocky insolence, Tudor then remarked that he forgave the girls whom he had abused, for giving evidence against him!

Following Tudor's imprisonment, a malignant underworld emerged from the sewers to give him its support. The family of one of the girls he had corrupted, and who had testified against him, were driven from their home by a sustained campaign of threatening hate mail.

This is only to be expected when, after years of clamour on behalf of the so-called 'rights' to which the scum of society lay claim, the establishment itself is now prepared to close ranks with that same scum.

Was there ever a greater need within Britain for a militant force with the ability and the will to champion the cause of the nation's decent majority? Only the British National Party provides the germ-cell of such a force.

opposite of what they had conned the British electorate into believing would happen!

Ever since then, Mrs. Thatcher has been trying to hoodwink the British people into thinking that 'she is a champion of 'traditional values'. But the reality is that in the near nine years since she became prime minister crime has shot up by over 60 per-cent and national morals have become yet further debased.

GREEN LIGHT FOR THE SCUM OF SOCIETY

With the kind of tolerance that we see towards murderers, perverts and thugs, coupled with the complete absence of any adequate penalties, is it any wonder that every psychopathic biological misfit gets the idea that he can do as he likes? Is it any wonder that the rate of vile sex offences, including the killing of children, has hit the roof?

The climate that allows this refuse to thrive must be brought to an end. The whole 'liberal' mentality of our present ruling establishment is a diseased mentality. It is time that there was a new moral order based on health and sanity.

And, we say, it is our children who deserve the sympathy and protection of the law, not the reptiles who would defile and murder them. It is time for the pussyfooting to stop.

We Nationalists are alone among the parties in saying: Clean up Britain — bring back the rope!

but also should have issued a statement defending 'gay rights'!

Outrageously, it seems that Bowley will not even face disciplinary proceedings within his own profession for conduct unbecoming of a judge. The most that will happen to him is that he will have to return to private law practice. According to the Chairman of the Bar, Robert Johnson, QC, homosexuality should not disqualify people from being judges.

Bowley had written letters to his queer lover which had got into the hands of the press. According to another leading QC: "Would they have done the same thing (to Bowley) if the love letters were between a judge and a female third party who was not his wife?"

MANY QUEER JUDGES

According to one barrister who specialises in homosexual cases, a significant number of judges and recorders are homos. So long as they do not make their perversions too public, they are able to continue infiltrating the upper ranks of the judiciary.

An appalling recent example was that of Barbados-born clergyman David St. Clair Tudor, who abused his position of trust as chaplain to a school in Redhill, Surrey, to seduce young girls. The church establishment seems to have shown complete indifference to repeated complaints about Tudor. Way back in 1981, when just appointed a curate, he was regularly having intercourse with a 15-year-old girl.

THE LIES OF THE 'QUALITY' PRESS

REPRODUCED HERE is an item that recently appeared on the front page of The Sunday Times. It relates to an article inside the paper and its purpose obviously is to give the impression that the majority of people in Australia are in favour of abandoning the Monarchy and its British links and making their country a republic.

But the words in fact amount to a deliberate lie.

In the article inside the paper, written by whizz kid lawyer Malcolm Turnbull, no evidence whatever was produced to support the claim that Australians are against the Monarchy. What the writer expressed were merely his own sentiments on the matter.

MISLEADING HEADLINE
Lies from the Sunday Times about Australia's attitude towards the Monarchy

In true fact, numerous opinion polls have been conducted among Australians in recent times over both the status of the Monarchy in Australia and the preservation of the traditional Australian flag, with its inclusion of the Union Jack. In all cases the polls have indicated that the majority wish to preserve both the Monarchy and the old flag.

So why did The Sunday Times attempt to mislead its readers by this front-page item? We can only conclude that it wishes to promote the idea in Britain that we must abandon the White Commonwealth countries because they, allegedly, have abandoned us — or wish soon to do so.

Like the rest of the 'quality' press, The Sunday Times cannot be trusted!

Third World drugs tide hits the West

BUT WESTERN GOVERNMENTS JUST CAVE IN

LIKE ALL OTHER white western nations, Britain is now on the receiving end of a flood of dangerous drugs, some of them, such as heroin, lethal, all of them addictive and, in one way or another, liable to destroy the individuals who take them. The tide of drugs is yet another of the factors bringing crime, violence and ruin steadily upon Britain and the white race.

CASTRO
First head of state to be named in a US criminal charge

In common with most other modern-day evils threatening the destruction of our people, the drug trade is not some kind of sad or unfortunate 'accident', nor is it an 'inevitable' social ill which we have to put up with, as our politicians would have us believe; on the contrary, it is the outcome of a deliberate conspiracy contrived with diabolical cunning. The centre of this conspiracy is in the 'Third World'. This may explain why our government, in common with those of all other western 'democracies', responds to the threat with such pathetic weakness.

The quantity of illegal drugs which police or Customs & Excise ever manage to seize represents no more than a tiny drop in the ocean. Such seizures do not even begin to dent this evil trade. Now, in a show of 'concern' to stem the tide at its source, the British government has dispatched police and undercover agents overseas to Asia and the Caribbean, and to the centres on the Continent from which imported drugs are finally distributed to European countries. 'Drugs Liaison Officers' have been placed in Karachi, Bombay and the West Indies.

We doubt, however, whether all this amounts to more than a purely token effort. To begin with, our governments have clearly shown by their actions to date that they do not really give a damn for the fate of our own race. That is why, in the first place, they have allowed so many of our own youth to lapse into aimlessness, lawlessness and unemployment — and the weakest of them, who most of all need hard discipline (and in a properly run country would receive it), to drift into drug addiction. In addition, of course, all our established politicians long ago sold their souls to the cause of multi-racialism and the 'Third World'.

This is why the Afro-Asian and Latin American godfathers of the international narcotics trade now feel so confident and aggressive in pushing their drugs onslaught against Britain and the Western World. The fact is that 'Third World' political leaders, gangsters and even sometimes whole populations are in cahoots to keep the multi-billion-pound drug business going at the expense of our own people.

CRIMINAL INDICTMENT

As one example, none other than Cuban Communist boss Fidel Castro was recently linked with one of the world's biggest drug rackets when he became the first head of state to be named in a formal US criminal indictment. Castro has been the long-standing friend and protector of the infamous drugs mafia based in the South American banana republic of Colombia, known as the Medellin gang.

This gang has a policy of murdering any Colombian public figures opposed to the drugs trade. Its victims have numbered police chiefs, newspapermen and politicians, including a presidential candidate. In one massacre, 11 supreme court justices were butchered at the country's palace of justice.

Castro was named in the US indictment for acting on behalf of the Colombian drug barons (a part of whose profits are recycled into anti-western left-wing terrorism) by recovering a four million dollar bribe. The money had been paid by the Medellin gang to Panama's tin-pot tyrant General Manuel Noriega, who, in return, promised to protect the drug gang's operations against American investors attempting to stop the drug-trafficking to the United States, which has been taking place via Panama since the US abandoned control of the territory's canal zone. When Noriega failed to provide this protection the Cuban leader prevailed on him both to return the money and to release 26 gang members held in Panama.

APPEASEMENT

Witnesses against Castro in the US include such figures as the former Panamanian Consul to Washington, Jose Blandon, and a convicted 'Mr. Big' behind the drug-smuggling named Steve Kalish. But only Noriega has been charged. In an attitude of appeasement typical of the western 'democracies' in their dealings with 'Third World' rulers, the US government only names Castro as Noriega's co-conspirator, without actually charging him and thereby declaring real war on this Soviet-backed international trouble-maker, who has been a thorn in the flesh of America and the Western World for nearly 30 years.

Meanwhile, in Colombia — which supplies 80 per-cent of the world's cocaine — the recent murder of the country's Attorney General is said to have put an end to what had already become half-hearted efforts against the racketeers. To forestall any American and other western disquiet, Colombia's president Virgilio Vargas has gone through the motions of publicly ordering continued anti-drug measures, but those closest to him admit: "The battle is lost and there is no public or government support for the fight."

According to one senior official: "The people of our country support the drug cartels. The rich do it out of fear and the poor do it out of self-interest, since they are making more money growing coca leaves than doing anything else."

HOW THE EVIL AFFECTS BRITAIN

The international drugs networks extend deep into the West itself, where our own home-grown white criminal scum eagerly collaborate with the 'Third World' godfathers who ruthlessly exploit the Afro-Asian communities resident here to further their evil trade. How this is done was revealed some three years ago in a Yorkshire Post report exposing the extent of the heroin network in the North of England.

The report described the activities of the Asian 'Mr. Bigs' behind the heroin pushing in the area — part of a brotherhood stretching back to Pakistan. This was then headed from Bradford by one Mohammed Iqbal and his two brothers, who used the services of white and West Indian dealers to distribute heroin originating in Asia, mainly to unemployed British youth in the depressed steel towns of Rotherham and Sheffield.

Such was the wealth and power of Iqbal, widely regarded as a folk hero by Asian youth in Bradford, that he was able to enforce a wall of silence within the city's Asian community about his activities which long defeated police efforts to nail him. Incredibly, when eventually charged, Iqbal was granted bail by Bradford Magistrates and fled back to Pakistan.

This did not spell the end of the drug trade in the area. Just recently, alien drug-dealer Nicholas Chrastry managed to escape from a well-guarded police cell in the heavily Asian West Yorkshire town of Dewsbury, where he had been taken supposedly to help police with enquiries. The circumstances of this escape have still to be satisfactorily explained to the public.

Another factor in the Narcotics explosion has been the use by the drug networks of young West Indians within the coloured ghettos as street peddlers. Police have been ordered by Margaret Thatcher's feeble Tory government to pussyfoot with young black criminals, instead of going in hard — for fear of causing riots and upsetting 'race relations'.

The result? The mushroom growth of gangs such as the West Indian mafia known as the 'Yardies'. A Metropolitan Police report, quoted in The Daily Mail, revealed that this gang also has far-reaching overseas links, not only with the West Indies but also with international hoodlums connected with Israel.

Meanwhile, neither Mrs. Thatcher nor any other of the politicians of the old-gang parties in Britain have any solutions to offer. Because they have not the will to say no to the ever more strident demands of the 'Third World', the welfare of our own nation and race are to be sacrificed yet again — this time to alien mobsters. One thing is certain: it will take an altogether different calibre of leadership from that of present-day 'liberal democracy' to face down this menace and restore our people to health and sanity.

YOUR LETTERS

Sir, — I would like to congratulate you on the improved format and presentation of British Nationalist.

I would also like to offer a few suggestions based on my experience and feedback from regular buyers.

Firstly, I think that the main article should always be about race — or, after an IRA outrage, Ulster, and occasionally unemployment. I say this because BN is aimed at the new and regular supporters. Most new readers buy the paper because of our stance on race and immigration. A topic like abortion, as in the February issue, should be a sub-story, or on the second or third page, as it only has a limited appeal to new buyers, whereas the smaller article on the front page of the February issue on crime in multi-racial Britain, if it had been the main story, would have had a far greater impact. You may say that the controversy over abortion made big news in the media, and it did when the article was written; but by mid-February, when most of the selling of the paper took place, it was forgotten. I know it may be difficult to write a main article on race and immigration every month, but I really feel that, as this is our main policy, we should concentrate it on the front page.

Secondly, would it be possible to have an article on the practicality and logistics of repatriation and resettlement? Although it is part of our main policy, the topic barely gets a mention, even in Spearhead. I have tried this myself, but I have floundered over facts and figures.

Thirdly, I feel that the 'holocaust' topic should only receive a slight mention in the paper, if any. This is because the average person has been brainwashed into believing it, and new buyers who may support us on race and immigration may initially recoil, at a first reading, from any mention of the Jews. New supporters need a gradual introduction into the holocaust question, and the best policy would be to keep it to Spearhead.

My fourth suggestion is that within the section 'What We Stand For' there should be added freedom of speech, as some people to whom I have spoken on the doorstep feel strongly about the fact that we are denied it. We have nothing to fear from freedom of speech, and we can only gain by promoting it.

Lastly, the clarity and quality of photographs in the paper has improved also.

Once again, congratulations on the new and improved British Nationalist.

Sir, — During much of February our broadcasting services seem to have been obsessively pre-occupied with the presidential primary elections in the United States. Personally, I am bored to tears with the whole business.

America is, after all, just another foreign country, albeit a very important one. Her internal politics should receive some coverage in the British media but not the utterly excessive coverage that they get today. It seems that our mass media treat American politics as if they were as important as our own.

Race: the great conspiracy of silence

"...The subject of race is another vast area of public concern where censorship, often backed by law, operates at a number of levels. Indeed, I think it can truthfully be said that no newspaper now dares to publish articles which discuss Britain's race problems frankly."

Paul Johnson (THE SPECTATOR)

"The greatest breach of all democratic principles perpetrated in this country this century was the series of covert decisions, all taken against the popular will, which resulted in this country becoming a multi-racial society...If anything, the liberal media allowed itself to become part of the conspiracy, playing down the facts so as not to arouse too much public opposition. To all intents and purposes, the creation of a multi-racial society was a liberal coup d'état and to this day it has never been legitimised by any convincing constitutional process."

Peregrine Worsthorne
(SUNDAY TELEGRAPH)

THE SETTING UP of a multi-racial society in Britain is currently shaping up as the greatest national disaster of all time. It is not too much to say that, if multi-racialism is pursued to its logical conclusion, this will mean the end of the British Nation. Moreover, if matters are allowed to continue at the present rate, this final and irreversible catastrophe cannot be delayed much beyond a couple of generations. In these circumstances,

BERNIE GRANT
Incited hatred and disorder but never prosecuted

many Britons now living could expect to be personally caught up in this calamity.

In the meantime, if nothing is done to reverse this process, the kind of conditions which have already made life intolerable for large numbers of our people (especially those resident in inner city areas) will spread across the length and breadth of our country as the multi-racial experiment is extended to yet new areas.

LIES AND STEALTH

From the first beginnings, the transformation of this country into a multi-racial society has been a process inflicted on the British people without so much as a 'by your leave'. It has been undertaken by stealth and masked from the public by lies and concealment on the part of our rulers.

LIES, CENSORSHIP AND REPRESSION MASK THE BRUTAL REALITY OF MULTI-ETHNIC BRITAIN

And now that multi-racialism has attained its present disastrous proportions — with massive riots, the large-scale breakdown of law and order, and admissions by senior police officers that they are under orders from their political superiors to go soft on 'ethnic minority' criminals — the politicians and media, acting effectively in collusion, are more eager than ever to hide the hideous catastrophe that their policies have brought about.

Thus, despite the stark nature of this menace to our very survival as a nation, the matter of immigration and multi-racialism has not allowed to become in any way a public issue, to be freely and frankly debated. Everything connected with the matter is submerged in a conspiracy of silence.

In the general election of 1987, for instance, the topic was not even discussed. All the major parties, together with the mass media, collaborated in making it a non-issue — despite the widespread awareness and apprehension among the electorate about the consequences of multi-racialism for the future of Britain.

In fact, the worse the situation has become the more energetically the politicians have acted to suppress any exposure of the truth. And they have gone far beyond lies and concealment, turning to outright censorship and to repression of any outspoken British people who attempt to make the facts known. In keeping with this policy, they are currently attempting to kill free speech on the

OUR POSITION IS NOT BASED ON HATRED

In fact, no intelligent nationalist or patriot is motivated by hatred against other races. We are simply strongly inspired by love of our own race. If there is to be any hostile sentiment arising from out of opposition to the multi-racial society, it should be directed at those in public office who have connived at the creation of this society, most of whom of course are white natives of this country!

Of course, the politicians and power-wielders of modern Britain know this perfectly well. That is why they have provided themselves with these oppressive laws.

The race laws themselves are phrased in such a way as to suggest that they will operate even-handedly between the races. In practice, they are entirely a one-sided device, intended by their framers to be used against white Britons only. When, after the Broadwater Farm riot in 1985, Haringey councillor Bernie Grant (now a Labour MP) crowded over the murder of PC Keith Blakelock at a public meeting, saying that the rioters had given the police a "bloody good hiding" and in effect inciting his fellow Blacks to further mayhem against white society, Mrs. Thatcher's government did not invoke the provisions of the same Public Order Act against him which prohibit "threatening words and behaviour." But during 1985 and 1986 the Thatcher government saw fit to launch the biggest subject by means of vicious race laws. These include both the Race Relations Act and the so-called 'Public Order Act' — a law which has much less to do with maintaining public order than with suppressing the freedom of expression and action of patriots opposed to the racial destruction of the British people. Provisions of these laws make it possible for prosecutions to be brought against patriotic Britons on the fraudulent pretext that their published statements in opposition to multi-racialism might be deemed likely to "stir up hatred" against members of ethnic minorities.

offensive so far under the racial provisions of the Act against some 20 British patriots, who were prosecuted for writing, publishing and distributing material exposing and denouncing the social consequences of multi-racialism. The editor of this paper and the leader of the British National Party that it supports were among those prosecuted and imprisoned. Neither in court nor at any other time, however, was the truth of what they had written ever questioned.

It is worth noting that, since that time, the Tory government has instituted a revised 'Public Order Act' which is clearly intended to be even more viciously repressive than its predecessor towards the opponents of multi-racialism.

BLANKET OF SILENCE

Meanwhile, despite all their talk of the public's "right to know" on other matters, the mass media have in practice collaborated with the government in throwing a blanket of silence over the truth. Newspaper editors have been intimidated into saying nothing on the subject of the direction in which Britain's multi-racial society is headed — as is borne out by the testimony of two journalists quoted at the start of this article. This gagging process has been operated by a gang of aliens, leftists and others with a vested interest in the enforcement of race-mixing. An example of a part of this repressive network is the Press Council, headed by Sir Zelman Cowen. Another is the National Union of Journalists. In addition, many of the proprietors and controllers of our newspapers and TV channels are similarly committed multi-racialists.

What we are in fact faced with overall is an unscrupulous and cynical attempt by all the powers that control modern Britain to hide the enormity of the crime that they have committed against the British people. This conspiracy of silence — part of a regime of lies and tyranny of a kind more usually associated with Soviet-style totalitarianism — is something that it is the duty of every loyal and patriotic Briton to fight and expose by all means available.

THE BRITISH NATIONAL PARTY recording company BNP Recordings is pleased to announce the availability of its first video-recording, which is out this month.

The recording is entitled 'Rally '87' and is a film of the BNP rally in London held on the 31st of October last year.

On the film you can hear speakers Ronald Rickcord (chairman of the meeting), Ian Sloan, Gus McLeod, Richard Edmonds, Dr. Peter Peel, Stanley Clayton-Garnett, David Bruce and John Tyndall. Mr. Tyndall's speech is filmed almost in its entirety.

'Rally '87' is the first of what is intended to be a series of video-films produced by the BNP. It costs £18 plus £1 for postage. At the moment the video is only being made to play at British speeds but it is hoped soon to make a version available which will play at American speeds.

Please send orders with cash to: BNP Recordings, PO Box 446, London SE23 2LS.

Successful Northern seminar

THE FIRST of a series of internal party training seminars to be organised by the BNP this year was held in Leeds on Sunday, February 28th.

The seminar concentrated on instruction on basic local activity tasks but was also partially devoted to the question of motivation. Speaking at the seminar were BNP National Organiser David Bruce, South London Regional Organiser Richard Edmonds and Yorkshire member John Wood.

Approximately 40 were present, these representing party officials and a few leading activists from the North of England. The seminar was regarded by all taking part as a highly successful event, likely to make for greater effort throughout the area in the future.

POLICE FRAME-UP?

AS WE GO TO PRESS, news has just reached us of an incident in Sheffield in which a group of BNP activists were attacked by a red mob outside a pub a little while after the BNP men had taken part in a paper sale in the city.

The BNP group, six in number, was picked on by a crowd of leftists estimated at about 30. In the affray, Barry Bolton, one of the nationalists, received some particularly unpleasant injuries to his face.

Extraordinarily, within only 30 seconds of the start of the trouble large numbers of police arrived in several vanloads, suggesting that they had been standing by in anticipation of it. BNP men Tim Hepple and Peter Baynes were thereupon arrested and charged with assaults on police officers — charges which both vigorously deny.

We will keep readers posted of all further developments in this case, but on the evidence known so far the question must be asked: were the police in collusion with the reds in this incident? If not, how did it come that they were present in such large numbers only half a minute after it started? Our paper and our party have always opposed generalised attacks on Britain's police, whom we firmly support. It could be that in this particular case, however, our people encountered certain police officers willing to employ political bias against nationalists.

OBITUARY

Robin May

We have heard with much sadness that Robin May, the well known London nationalist, died on February 22nd.

Robin May became known to us as a very dedicated activist in the National Front during the 1970s. He stood as NF parliamentary candidate in Hackney North and Stoke Newington and played a major part in the building up of the party in his home area of Hornsey. In addition to this, he gave much help in promoting activities in other parts of the country.

In the NF split in 1979 he sided with the group known as the 'Constitutional Movement', later adopting the name of 'Nationalist Party'. Before long, however, he came over to the BNP and for a time took charge of organising the party's programme of social activities, which function he performed with his usual thoroughness and flair. Later he assisted in the work of branch liaison.

Robin May will be much missed by all who knew him, and we take this opportunity to express our deepest condolences to his wife Sylvia and the rest of his family.

remind everyone of the exposures a short time ago concerning the out-of-parliament activities of the Tory ex-member for Billericay, Harvey Proctor, who was found to pay male prostitutes regularly to sleep with him and who, as part of the fun, enjoyed giving them spankings for criticising Mrs. Thatcher, then later making it up to them by serving them with tutti frutti ice cream in bed in the morning!

Our question is this: What sort of a political system is it that we live under in Britain that can allow people of these kinds to obtain promotion to positions of public responsibility? Are these the fruits of 'democracy', which elevates to power and eminence those who emerge as the people's choice? These are matters on which a great many British folk should be pondering as they contemplate the nation's political future.

Building Fund: £5,357 Needed!

We are pleased to announce that the total in contributions to our Building Fund received in the last month amounts to £700, £300 of which comes from Liverpool BNP.

This makes a total of £1,643 raised and £5,357 still to be raised.

We hope that in the next month or so all supporters will dig deep into their pockets and do their very best to raise much more.

All contributions should be marked 'Headquarters Fund' and sent to PO Box 446, London SE23 2LS.

ECHOES OF TODAY?

Single acts of tyranny may be ascribed to the accidental opinion of a day; but a series of oppressions, begun at a distinguished period, and pursued unalterably through every change of ministers, too plainly prove a deliberate, systematical plan of reducing us to slavery.

What We Stand For

- The return of leadership and statesmanship to British affairs
- A government that will put British interests first
- British withdrawal from the European Common Market
- Closer links with the White Commonwealth
- Protection of British industry by the selective exclusion of foreign manufactured goods from Britain
- A sane financial system that will give to the people the purchasing power to buy the goods they produce
- The revival of British farming
- British ownership and control of British industry and resources
- A clamp-down on social security spongers and the restoration of the incentive to work — with the proviso that work is locally available
- An end to immigration and a start to repatriation
- British support for the Whites in South Africa
- An end to financial aid to corrupt Third World regimes
- The strengthening of Britain's defences
- Tougher treatment of criminals, including the return of the death penalty
- The smashing of the IRA, the termination of the Anglo-Irish Agreement and firm support for the Loyalist majority in Northern Ireland
- Repealing of the laws permitting Abortion and Homosexuality and a general toughening of legislation against the promotion of obscenity in the media
- The elimination of communism in Britain, in the mass media, in the factory and in the schoolroom
